

chashama Subsidized Artist Studio Application

A little information about the studios

- The Studios Program is for visual artists who wish to have a space in which to create new artwork. The studios are non-live, non-smoking spaces, and are not open to the public (except for during special Open Studios Events)
- Each location has its own set of rules regarding the type of work that may be made in it, as well as hours of operation.

The Application Process

Applications are open to visual artists living in any of the five boroughs of New York City.

- 1) Initial selection: A panel of artists, curators, and other arts professionals will select artists to be interviewed.
- 2) Interviews will be scheduled with selected artists. For those whose work was not selected by the panel, slides will be returned in the self-addressed stamped envelope included in the application.
- 3) Final selection of artists: artists will be notified by phone or e-mail of the final selection. If an artist has been interviewed, but not selected, we will keep their slides in reserve until the next application process. (Unless the artist asks for their return.) Should a space become available in the interim, we will contact those artists.

Reapplying

- Artists who have their applications on reserve (from the previous studio application period), may submit a completely new application, or may submit only new paperwork with a note to use the images on reserve.
- Artists who currently have studios with chashama must submit an entirely new application to be considered for an additional term of studio space.
